Board suspends teacher pending special hearing

By JEAN CALMEN
The Roman Special Writer

An English teacher at the Romulus Senior High School has been suspended pending a hearing under the Teachers' Tenure Act as a result of complaints about poetry she allegedly handed out to students.

The teacher, Dollie Harvard, of 30986 Ecorse, Romulus, was suspended with pay after Romulus school Supt. Robert L. McConeghy filed charges against her with the Romulus Board of Education.

McConeghy said the charges were filed while the board was in executive session on Nov. 20 and that he could not make specific details public.

The board voted unanimously for the suspension in a special 4-minute general session that convened at 7:58 p.m. following the closed session.

Board President Carl Morris added that the special session was called at the request of two board members.

Under the tenure act, a teacher is entitled to a hearing, either public or private at his option, before the Board of Education. The hearing must be held not less than 30 days nor more than 45 days from the date that charges are filed.

Mrs. Havard, who has been with the school district since 1966, Monday evening said she will request a private hearing.

Since the charges were filed on Nov. 20, the hearing must be between Dec. 20 and Jan. 4.

The charges against Mrs. Havard resulted from complaints by parents that she had distributed to students in a literature class copies of poetry they called "filthy and disgusting."

The poems are from a book entitled "The Pill Versus the Springhill Mine Disaster," by Richard Brautigan.

Although the irate parents were warned at a previous meeting they should not attempt to influence the board, which must act as judge at the hearing, several returned on Nov. 25 to learn what action had been taken.

No loser here

Susanna Maziarski wasn't crowned Romulus Junior Miss for 1975 during the Nov. 16 pageant, but by the size of the trophy and her smile it's hard to tell. As second runner-up to winner Donna Lynn Parker, she captured judging honors in the physical fitness and talent categories. Three days later, the 17-year-old Romulus High School senior won the Queen of Queens Pageant in Taylor. —The Romulus Roman photo.

Runner-up earns crown

Senior succeeds in pageants

Pageants are playing a big part in Susanna Maziarski's life these days. The 17-year-old Romulus High School senior not only was crowned as the school's homecoming queen in October, but captured the second runner-up award - behind Donna Lynn Parker - in the Romulus Junior Miss pageant Nov. 16. Since then, she has earned the title of "Queen of Queens" at a Nov. 19 pageant in Taylor, competing against 13 other high school homecoming queens from the Western Wayne and Downriver areas.

The Queen of Queens honor was bestowed upon Miss Maziarski for high judging in intelligence, poise and appearance, and earned her $100 in gift certificates from the Southland Center, where the pageant was held.

Other prizes were a dinner for four at the Holiday Inn and an invitation to be featured in Taylor's Thanksgiving Day Parade tomorrow.

Although talent categories were not a basis for the judging, Miss Maziarski is nonetheless an accomplished ballet dancer and karate student. In the Junior Miss Pageant, she won the talent category with a ballet performance to the tune of "Swan Lake."

She has a "second gup" brown belt rating in karate, which she said is vaguely similar to a second degree brown belt.

Miss Maziarski, the daughter of Richard and Mary Jo Maziarski of 3770 Wick Road, is president of the Foreign Language Club at the high school and a choir and Square Dance Club member. After graduation in June, she plans to attend the Interlochen Music Camp in Interlochen, Mich.

Complaints keep department officials hopping

By DALE GOWING
Of The Roman Staff

If the second year of existence of the Romulus Department of Responsive Government is as busy as the first, expect a pair of weary officials in City Hall come next November.

For Danny Lambert and Gary Bingamen, the city's 2-man complaint department, business has been booming.

"We get an average of 20 to 25 phone calls a day from citizens with problems that need solving," said Lambert, the department's director. "A lot of them are minor and require maybe just one call on our part to clear up, but others are big and take some work to solve." Lambert, 49, and Bingamen, 28, are troubleshooters for the public. Their department affords residents with problems or complaints an opportunity to make their feelings known to City Hall without getting the "run-around" from officials who may not have the time, or concern, for their welfare.

"The department was established to give the people a voice to the government," added Lambert, who began running the office alone a year ago after its formation by Mayor Terry Troutt.

Previous to that, the city had no department solely to help solve the day-to-day problems of its citizenry, he said.

Lambert said the volume of calls from residents with house, water, sewer and rubbish problems has been extraordinary.

"It keeps me under continuous pressure and I even get calls at 1 or 2 in morning sometimes," he added.

The pressure was eased substantially when Bingamen joined the department in January from his post as coordinator of the city's effort to construct more parks. Before that, he managed the Sheraton Hotel at Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

The two troubleshooters said they feel the department has provided a much-needed "direct line" to city government for residents. Not only do they listen to the complaints and problems of Romulus citizens, but they do "everything in our power" to see that the situations are corrected.

Lambert a 20-year resident of Romulus, was hired in 1955 by then-supervisor Troutt to be the Romulus Township ordinance enforcement officer. In 1965 he went into independent contracting and then the excavating business, where he stayed until rejoining Troutt's administration last November.

Since assuming the directorship of the Department of Responsive Government, Lambert has been instrumental in securing a bigger voice in the government for the people, particularly through the creation of a monthly "citizens' complaint night" at City Hall when the public may confront the City Council and mayor with problems and concerns.

Bingamen, who manned the department himself during July and August when Lambert was ill, said several other area cities have inquired about the effectiveness and success of the department, "but none have started similar programs as far as I know."

Lambert added that the majority of complaints called into the department deal with drainage and road problems and beefs with building contractors.

The latter used to be a large problem, because building ordinances weren't strongly enforced. "Now the contractor must post a bond when he starts a job and if he doesn't comply by a certain date he's out, he added.

Although troubleshooting for the public is all part of a day's work for Lambert and Bingamen, their efforts don't go unrewarded. Filed away in their office next door to the mayor's is a folder stuffed with "thank you" letters and notes of appreciation from citizens they have vailed out of trouble.

"It makes you feel like a million dollars," Lambert said. "I get a lot of satisfaction from helping someone, and I feel good when people call to say thanks."

"It goes back to sincerity - you have to want to do it or it'll be difficult. Some people call and leave their number if we're not in, but they don't expect a reply. Then when one of us calls they don't believe it."

The people's voice

Going over a citizen complaint, one of scores that pass his desk each day, is Daniel Lambert, (left) head of the Romulus Department of Responsive Government. Lambert and his assistant, Gary Bingamen (right) put in long hours in an effort to assure that the people of Romulus will have a voice in and to their government.

Grant officer to begin search for Romulus' money pie slice

Striving to obtain as much county, state and federal grant money as possible for the city comprise the duties of Romulus' newly-appointed community assistance director.

Charles Omarzu, 40, of 37523 Castle Drive, will begin working with local and national agencies Monday to obtain available grant-allocated funds for road, drain and park construction and maintenance, and for upgrading fire and police service.

In addition, Omarzu will study the presence of numerous abandoned homes in Romulus and formulate a plan for rehabilitating the boarded-up and sometimes vandalized buildings. Most of the houses are owned by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Mayor Terry L. Troutt, is making the appointment of Omarzu to the post, said the creation of the job is "long overdue" and that the previous lack of such a person caused the city annually to lose out on thousands of dollars in grant funds.

"I don't think Romulus is getting anywhere near its proper share of federal grant money," he said earlier this month when making the original proposal to hire a grant director. "If you don't know how to apply for it properly you won't get your share."

He added that $2.5 million in federal money will become available to cities on Jan. 1, and that Romulus deserves to receive its proper share of the total.

The City Council transferred $21,000 from the general budget to the Community Assistance and Development budget, from which Omarzu will receive a $15,500 salary. Troutt said the salary figure will be subject to a raise after evaluations of Omarzu's progress on the job.

The mayor has sole authority to hire the grant director, and his appointment of Omarzu did not need council approval. Troutt said he interviewed four men for the post, the only applicants, and chose Omarzu on the basis of his educational and professional background.

Omarzu, whose wife, Joan teaches second and third grades at Romulus Elementary School, most recently was a graduate assistant instructor at Wayne State University while doing work on a doctorate in political science.

Troutt said he believes the creation of the grant director's post will prove invaluable to the city.

"I'm confident that Mr. Omarzu will obtain for Romulus 200 times the amount of his salary in grant funds," he added.

In 'prestigious' assignments

Faust to serve on 3 committees next term

The state senator from Western Wayne County has landed three committee assignments which he believes will help his constituents.

State Sen. William Faust (D-13th District) has been designated chairman of the State Affairs Committee in the Senate and will serve on the education and Agriculture and Consumer Affairs committees during the next term in the Legislature.

"State affairs is the second most prestigious committee in the Senate," Faust said. "Virtually, every individual who receives a license from the state for a skill is affected by the committee's work.

"So I'm proud and excited at having the opportunity to chair its meetings."

"The committee will be working on such items as consideration of malpractice insurance reform for state doctors and tenants rights in mobile home parks.

"I'm excited at the work the committee will be doing and proud my colleagues have chosen me to serve as its chairman."

"On education, the committee will have the task of preventing the governor's recommended cut of one per cent of state aid to all school districts," Faust said. "The governor recommended that the education funds must be cut to offset the loss of revenues from the elimination of the sales tax on food and drugs." But the method he recommends would harm school districts in my area, forcing them to lose more on a per pupil basis than other districts, such as Detroit.

"The education committee will have the task of devising a means to have school aid cuts absorbed equally in all districts of the state."

On his third committee assignment, Faust sees some difficult work ahead in consumer protection.

"I'm afraid I won't have much input into the agricultural end of the committee's work," he added. "But as far as consumer affairs, I'm interested in an expansion of the 'holder and due course' legislation which will come before the committee."

Under present state law, a consumer who obtains funds to purchase an appliance through a lending institution and who does not receive satisfaction with that appliance's performance after the purchase, can force the lending institution as the "holder in due course" of the appliance to obtain either a refund or arrange the repair of that appliance.

Plans are being made to extend that coverage to consumers for the purchase of automobiles in the 1975-76 legislative session.

"It may be a real battle, with consumer groups in favor of it on one hand and automobile firms against it on the other," he said. "I'm looking forward to the challenge of this session, and I'm hoping that my colleagues and I can make it valuable to all the citizens of Michigan."

Name contest set for mobile library

A new "mobile library" will begin rolling through Romulus Dec. 13, but a pair of contests to name and decorate the Dodge van will precede its maiden "voyage."

The van, purchased with a $2,900 federal Title I grant matched by the same amount from the city, will service primarily shut-ins, senior citizens and schools, according to Diane Hazen, Romulus Public Library head librarian.

She said the chief purpose of the van will be to deliver books to residents who may not be able to visit the library. They will be able to call in their requests and have the books delivered to their doorstep, Mrs. Hazen added.

Eventually, the van will contain shelves of books for people to browse through when the mobile library visits their neighborhood.

But before the van even rolls its first mile, it must be "named" and a logo or trademark designed.

Mrs. Hazen said two contests are being conducted by the library, a "name the van" contest for children in the fourth grade and above and another for junior high and senior high-age students to design a symbol to be painted on the vehicle.

For the design contest, entrants must include an 8 1/2-by 11-inch drawing of their design. Entry blanks for both contests are available at the library, 11112 Wayne Road, next to the City Hall. Deadline for submitting entries is Dec. 7, and the judging will be Dec. 8, with prizes to be awarded for the winning entries.

Mrs. Hazen added that the van will follow four routes in the city, visiting each quarter of the community

The future of a Romulus charitable organization which services needy persons throughout Western Wayne County is becoming more clouded each day.

Directors of the Helping Hand Thrift Shop, who donate clothing and provide job and counseling referral, have been informed by the Romulus Community School District that they must vacate their facilities in the district's Special Services Building on Washington Street by Jan. 1. The thrift shop has occupied at least one room there for eight years.

Romulus School Supt. Robert L. McConeghy said there is a "crucial" need for the space for school district purposes, but added it is unfortunate the district's space needs have affected the thrift shop.

"The thrift shop has done a truly remarkable service to the citizens of this community in supplying essential items at very little or no cost," McConeghy said. "But the school district

In addition, two ministers from Romulus churches expressed their concern about the kind of material being distributed in the schools.

The Rev. Dave Standfest, of the Wesleyan Church, said: "It disturbs me that we can't pray in the schools but the teachers can swear and

Deer stay clear of corrals

A herd of deer at Detroit Metropolitan Airport, granted a stay of execution last week, may be headed for a shooting death after all.

Two specially-constructed fence enclosures designed to capture the deer in the wooded, southern fringe of the airport as yet are expressed appreciation to the district for allowing the use of the special services building since 1966.

Although McConeghy said, "I don't think it is my obligation to find them another place," he did write a letter to Mayor Terry L. Troutt asking him if he could "find adequate space in one of the city facilities so this worthwhile project can be continued in Romulus."

Troutt, however, said the city doesn't have any feasible space in which to locate the thrift shop. In August he had informed the thrift shop's director, Florence Klein, that the shop possibly would be able to occupy space in the city's old Department of Public Works (DPW) garage on Bibbins Street.

However, a recent inspection of the garage by Troutt prompted him to discourage that possibility.

The WCRC contends the deer pose a threat to airplanes landing on and departing from the main southwest - to - northeast runway, and a spokesman said deer have had to be chased off the runway on occasion.

WCRC Executive Director James Davey last week he is "not prepared to risk a single human life for the life of a deer," but consented to tempt to capture the deer. Davey added that the deer would be shot, if the capturing plan fails.

As of yesterday morning, no deer were reported to have visited the corrals to investigate the aroma of the apples and hay, the WCRC spokesman said. He added that he feared it was because the deer have adequate food available in the woods.

The spokesman said zoo officials claimed the traps would take "four, five or six days" to lure any deer, but it has been six days since the first corral was built.

The deer, reportedly semi-tame, feed at night and remain secluded during the daylight hours, causing additional problems.

portion of the garage that would be needed for the thrift shop.

Troutt also discouraged the possibility of transforming part of the DPW office building into quarters for the shop. "It would cost a lot of money to tear out the expensive partitions in the offices," he said.

He said the city plans to station a fire truck in a

Do legislators earn their pay?

By BOB BERG
Enterprise-Roman Lansing Bureau Chief

The Legislature came back to town this week, getting here just in time to recess for Thanksgiving.

It's been two months since the full-time lawmakers held a session and they've met only two weeks since they took off in July for the primary campaign trail. The word is they'll be here three weeks or so, counting Thanksgiving week, and then go home for good.

Usually they come back into session sooner in November than they did this year, but then recess for deer hunting season. They always catch a lot of heat for recessing to go drink beer, play cards and maybe shoot a deer or two, however. So this year, they did it differently. They didn't come back at all until after deer season started, so they couldn't be criticized for recessing. The main item of business facing them is how to implement the repeal of the sales tax on food and prescription drugs voted by the people in November. As soon as they have taken care of that, they'll probably go home for good.

The only other real item of interest for them is finishing the splitting up of the goodies for the new session in January. The wheeling and dealing is on in earnest for committee assignments, office space assignments and other prerequisites of the position they hold.

All of this goes on while Michigan faces its worst economic picture in years. People across the country aren't buying cars and when that happens Michigan's economy goes to hell. Now, there are a lot of things the Legislature can't do in the field of the economy. It is a national situation to be dealt with mainly by national government.

But it might not be too much to ask if a few of them thought about the situation for a while and if some sort of attempt were made to lighten the load. But the lawmakers have been so busy getting themselves reelected they haven't really paid that much attention to the situation, except to make some vague promises.

For example, over the years prophets have tried to get Michigan less dependent on one industry and more diversified. The slack in car sales shows why that is necessary and now would be a good time to launch some new initiatives for diversification, if the lawmakers would pay some attention to the problem.

There was a great deal of wailing and gnashing of teeth earlier this year when lawmakers received a small raise to $18,050 per year for the next two years. It was duly noted that this really was a small salary to dangle in front of a professional man and ask him to go into public service.

But when lawmakers spend so little time in session and do so little outside of the session, it becomes harder to work up any real tears for them. They still the state, especially those being laid off of auto production lines as Christmas comes on the horizon.

In truth, this year the lawmakers have spent no more time in session than lawmakers in states where the legislature still is viewed as a part-time institution. There is a difference, however—in those states, special study committees are set up in off periods to study particular problems and draw up proposed legislation. Michigan lawmakers, with no official down time, don't get into that.

At any rate, the next time lawmakers start to cry about their pay or their public image, they would do well to remember they have only themselves to blame. And one way of turning things around might be to start working full time in exchange for a full-time salary.

But when lawmakers spend so little time in session...it becomes harder to work up any real tears for them.

As we see it

Involvement needed

It often seems that members of the community do a lot of complaining when things don't go their way; but they do little to shape and support their city. Well, now they have their change.

Belleville residents will have an opportunity to take an active role in the planning of a city-wide development program. All they have to do is fill out a questionnaire which is available at the Belleville City Hall, 6 Main St. They also should attend public meetings which will be set up on the program.

Under the federally funded Community Development Act of 1974, public involvement is necessary for the city to receive up to $189,000 in funding. The money can be used for programs such as urban renewal, model cities, water and sewer, neighborhood or public facilities and rehabilitation loans.

Belleville residents have a chance to actively support their community...to actively be involved in future planning. We hope the residents accept that responsibility...pick up a questionnaire today.

DANGER

Scientists warn about new discovery

Eagle Lansing Bureau

Question: What do the atomic bomb, refrigeration units and aerosol spray cans have in common?

Answer: They all could lead to destruction of the protective shield in the earth's outer atmosphere which protects us all from the worst of the sun's ultraviolet radiation.

Scientists have known for years of the many potential dangers of the atomic bomb. But it is only this year that the potential danger posed by refrigeration units and aerosol spray cans has been discovered.

The result has been a surge of concern which included the introduction of a bill in the Michigan Legislature to ban the use of the potentially dangerous substance.

The potential villain in this problem is the substance which makes the cans squirt and refrigerators cool. It is a family of gases known as halomethanes and commonly called freon.

The advantage to freon has been that it is odorless, colorless and tasteless. It doesn't mix with any other substance so it makes a perfect propellant. And if it escapes into a room it is harmless. There are other gases which have the same cooling or propelling properties, but they either contaminate the other substance in the spray can or are dangerous if they escape into the atmosphere.

Scientists have assumed the halomethanes were harmless because they don't react with other components of the atmosphere, are relatively insoluble in water and there are no known mechanisms for biologically breaking them down.

However, earlier this year two researchers at the University of California said that these gases can be broken down by radiation levels present in the stratosphere—that portion of the stratosphere located 15 to 50 kilometers above the earth's surface. When they are broken down, chlorine atoms are freed and other researchers have discovered that chlorine atoms break down ozone. Ozone is the substance in the stratosphere which screens out 99 per cent of the ultraviolet radiation coming from the sun to the earth.

High intensities of the radiation are harmful to life and most scientists agree that surface life on earth evolved only after the ozone layer was formed.

Researchers don't yet understand the degree of the problem presented by freon, but they know if there is a problem something should be done about it pretty soon. A recent article in Science magazine stated that roughly 55 million tons of the two gases have been produced in the history of the world. But production rapidly has increased so that this year alone another 11 million tons will have been made.

The problem is compounded by the fact the gases are extremely stable and scientists believe that nearly all the halomethanes which have been produced still are resident in the atmosphere. That means if there already is a problem, the only thing a total halt would do would be to stop aggravating the problem.

Calls it 'stagflation'

President Ford acknowledges recession

The White House is acknowledging that the U.S. economy is "moving into a recession." This gets President Ford into the company of economists who have been using the term with greater frequency as the mass of economic statistics accumulated over the past several months.

Whether we are in a recession, or whether we use the term "stagflation" to describe our plight, the combination of inflation and a business slump is serious and getting more serious.

It is a battle that has to be fought. The big question is what the "lame duck" 93rd Congress coming back from an election recess will be inclined to do. House Speaker Carl Albert has remarked that he doubts if anyone expects Congress to "turn around the worldwide inflation by Thanksgiving." No one does, but with layoffs in the auto industry now numbering more than 84,000 and the next calculation of the unemployment rate almost sure to exceed six per cent, the current Congress may find it hard to plead that it is too "lame" to work, too "lame" to respond to cries for some meaningful moves to counter inflation or recession or both.

In the wings is a 94th Congress, to be seated in January, even more weighted with liberal Democrats than the 93rd and carrying an election "mandate" to do something for the economy.

Regardless of what prescription the administration's economists might be writing, the new Congress may feel compelled to grab the ball and run with it in some new direction.

This does not auger well for Ford's hope to keep the government wedded to the "old-time religion" of fiscal prudence and monetary restraint.

Achieving a balanced budget in the next fiscal year—a key element of anti-inflation strategy—may be impossible without a tax increase or major cuts in costly social programs.

The new Congress is not likely to regard those alternatives as in keeping with its "mandate."

The President's earlier reluctance to say that there is a recession under way has had a beneficial effect. It very properly emphasized that our No. 1 problem is inflation, and that the business slump, no matter how bad it gets, has to be endured with all its consequences as part of the process of getting rid of the inflationary virus.

However, if the current Congress or the new one takes the approach that curing inflation is less important than treating its symptoms, retreating to economic controls or a new spree of deficit spending, then the outlook for returning to a truly healthy economy—one that is free, stable and productive—is bleak.

Will new Congress face our problems?

By STAN OPOTOWSKY
The Eagle Special Columnist

The newly-elected Congress is making plans to move on to Washington, and those of us left behind wonder what to expect.

Of some things we can be certain. Soon after their arrival in Washington, the new Congressmen will line up for the free haircuts at the barbershops the taxpayers underwrite, they'll load their payrolls with kinfolk and supporters, and they'll start fondling the travel brochures to plan the overseas junkets we will finance.

But there are uncertainties as well as certainties in the future of the new Congress. For example, will they do what they were elected to do? Or for that matter, can they do what they were elected to do?

Hubert Humphrey issued a kind of warning to the newcomers when he said after the election: "Democrats beware! Now you have to deliver." Deliver what?

It is an accepted fact that the turnover in Congress was the result of voter dismay in two areas—the economy and political morality.

There is serious doubt whether Congress can do anything effective in one area. There is serious doubt whether Congress wants to do anything in the other area.

Most if not all of the people elected to office (even the office of dogcatcher) promised during their campaigns to do something about the economy, about inflation and recession which are hurtling along side by side.

Actually, a large and diverse group cannot realistically be expected to do much about inflation.

Congress can be effective, however, in cooperating with the President if he is moving far enough and fast enough against inflation—or in prodding him if he is not moving in the right direction or with the right speed.

Congress also could be effective in improving political morality, but that is not very likely. The new Congressmen already are pondering means of getting re-elected next time.

As popular winter recreation

Snowmobiling takes over in Michigan parks

With the sales of snowmobiles expected to exceed last year's mark throughout Michigan, the state is proving to be one of the most popular sites for use of the winter recreational vehicle.

"Just 10 years ago, there were fewer than 1,500 snowmobiles operating in Michigan," said Joseph Ratke, AAA touring manager. "Now, the number of registered snowmobiles surpasses the total of licensed motorcycles in Michigan by more than 85,000 vehicles."

Michigan snowmobilers will have access to more than 6.3 million acres of public land for their sport this winter. Available land includes more than 100,000 acres at 70 state park and recreation areas, 58 marked trails covering 1,500 miles in state forests and more than six million acres of state and national forest open country. In addition, seven

Department of Natural Resources (DNR) public game areas will have trails and acreage open to snowmobilers from Jan. 1 to March 31, 1975.

Auto Club said due to poor public response, the DNR is not leasing any private land in southern Michigan for open country snowmobiling as it has done during the two previous seasons.

A DNR spokesman added that the department is conducting a pilot project near Grand Rapids to determine the feasibility of renting private land for trail use.

Snowmobilers will not be allowed to run on state lands unless four or more inches of snow are on the ground. Vehicle entrance permits, costing $5, must be obtained for snowmobilers to be operated in sections of state parks and recreation areas designated for their use. The annual permits also are required for cars, trucks and other vehicles used to bring snowmobiles into these public areas.

New public snowmobile trails, all in state forests in the Lower Peninsula are Gladwin Refuge in the Tittabawassee River State Forest near Meredith; Chandler Hills, Jordan River State Forest, near Boyne Falls; East Devils Lake, Alpena State Forest, near Alpena; North Branch, Otsego State Forest, near Gaylord; St. Helen to Roscommon, Houghton Lake State Forest, near St. Helen; Bear Lake, Kalkaska State Forest, near Kalkaska; North Missaukee and Lake City North, Missaukee State Forest, near Lake City, and Silver Creek, Black Lake State Forest, near Millerburg.

The Upper Peninsula site is Greenhills, Michigan State Forest, near Ishpeming.

Pigeon River, a trail in the Pigeon River State Forest near Gaylord, has been closed.

Ratke said last winter, when a record 33 persons died in Michigan snowmobile accidents, 23 of the fatalities occurred on highways or highway shoulders and primarily involved collisions with other motor vehicles. "As these figures show, snowmobiling is much safer if enjoyed on trails and open areas, specially designated for the sport," the auto club official said.

Ratke added that darkness also was a factor in more than 75 percent of last season's fatal snowmobile accidents. Twenty-five fatalities occurred between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m.

"Based on the 1973-74 death toll, the most potentially dangerous situation for a snowmobiler is to be operating his machine on or near a highway from 9 p.m. to 3 a.m.," he said. "Of the 17 fatalities recorded during that time period, all but one were highway-related." The Auto club reminds snowmobilers that according to state law, children under 12 years cannot operate a snowmobile on public property without adult supervision. Youngsters aged 12 to 15 years must pass an 8-hour DNR snowmobile safety course to drive on public property without adult supervision. Specific information on where these courses are offered can be obtained at DNR regional offices.

Beverly School PTO sets goals for 1975

The Parent-Teacher Organization (PTO) of Beverly Elementary School in Romulus has approved the establishment of various programs and goals for the coming year.

PTO President Thomas Johnson, who stressed the importance of goal setting at a recent meeting, presented PTO members with several objectives to pursue.

First on the list of objectives is to purchase new playground equipment and to paint the existing ones, he said.

Other projects such as sponsoring educational trips for pupils, supporting needy pupils for the school's outdoor education program and carpeting the library also were accepted.

The calendar of events for the upcoming months which were approved at the meeting are:

-Brotherhood dinner in February, father and son night in March, fashion show in April, school carnival in May and an educational field trip in June.

A committee chaired by Lois Sreety has been established to select the playground equipment. Margarette Reed volunteered to chair the fund raising committee while Millicent Humphrey will coordinate the brotherhood dinner.

Planning for the educational field trip in June will be under the direction of Carolyn Martin.

The PTO also voted to finance the annual visit of Santa Claus to the school as they have done since 1970.

Automotive roundup

Old cars repaired while new cars get dusty

Many Americans are flocking to car dealers this fall, but they're leaving with their present autos and a repair bill, while new models gather dust in the showrooms and on assembly plant lots. Sales from the U.S. car factories to the dealers were down 38 per cent during early November as dealers trimmed inventories to meet what almost everybody expects to be a very lean winter. Chrysler, Ford and General Motors reportedly have inventories on factory lots of enough unsold new cars to supply dealers for between 70 and 120 days. Where layoffs are endemic, car sales are anemic.

In Detroit, about 60,000 auto workers will be off the job next month. One car dealer said dozens of people called to cancel new car orders last week after the most recent series of layoffs.

"The consumer isn't likely to buy a car when he may not have a job in a month," said one dealer. "I can't say that I blame him."

Pinto reduced

Effective with orders placed on and after last Friday, the suggested retail price of the 1975 2-door Pinto was reduced $150, making it — at $2,769 — the car with the lowest sticker price produced in the United States, according to John B. Naughton, Sales Group Vice President, Ford Motor Company.

The reduction will include cuts of $66 in the suggested base price of the car and $84 for substitution of less expensive tires.

The $84 reduction for tires also will apply to the other two Pinto models, the station wagon and the 3-door Runabout.

Additionally, a $66 cash rebate will be paid to all prior purchasers of 1975 2-door Pintos.

We are taking this action because the American automobile market obviously needs a stimulant and we want to bring the price of new cars within the reach of more buyers," Naughton said. "We chose the 2-door Pinto — our lowest-priced and most fuel-efficient model for 1975 — because we believe the best place to economize is at the economy end of the market."

OPEN FOR BUSINESS — A Romulus branch has been opened by Home Federal Savings and Loan Association at 34955 Van Born Road just east of Wayne Road. The new facility, presently housed in temporary quarters, is under the management of Adrienne Halton of Detroit who is shown along with an interior view of the business establishment. Home Federal Savings and Loan Association has two other branches in Detroit.

Home Federal opens branch

A new and third branch of Home Federal Savings and Loan Association has opened in the City of Romulus.

The new facility, offering savings and loan and related services, is located at 34955 Van Born Road, east of Wayne Road in the City of Romulus.

The Home Federal Savings and Loan Association has two other locations in Detroit. They are located at Woodward Avenue and Clairmont Street and at Seven Mile Road and Littlefield.

The Romulus branch is housed in temporary quarters. A permanent structure is planned by Association officials.

Adrienne Halton of Detroit is manager of the Romulus facility. She began her employment with the Association five years ago in Detroit as a receptionist and then became a mortgage processor and branch manager.

The Home Federal Savings and Loan Association offers a complete savings and loan service, mortgages, savings accounts, mortgage counseling and accepts payments of utilities bills.

Present hours of operation at the Romulus branch are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Friday. There are no Saturday hours.

Home Federal Savings and Loan Association has been in business for 27 years, Mrs. Halton said.

Board official begins duties

A new business manager recently appointed by the Van Buren Board of Education this week has officially assumed the duties of his administrative post.

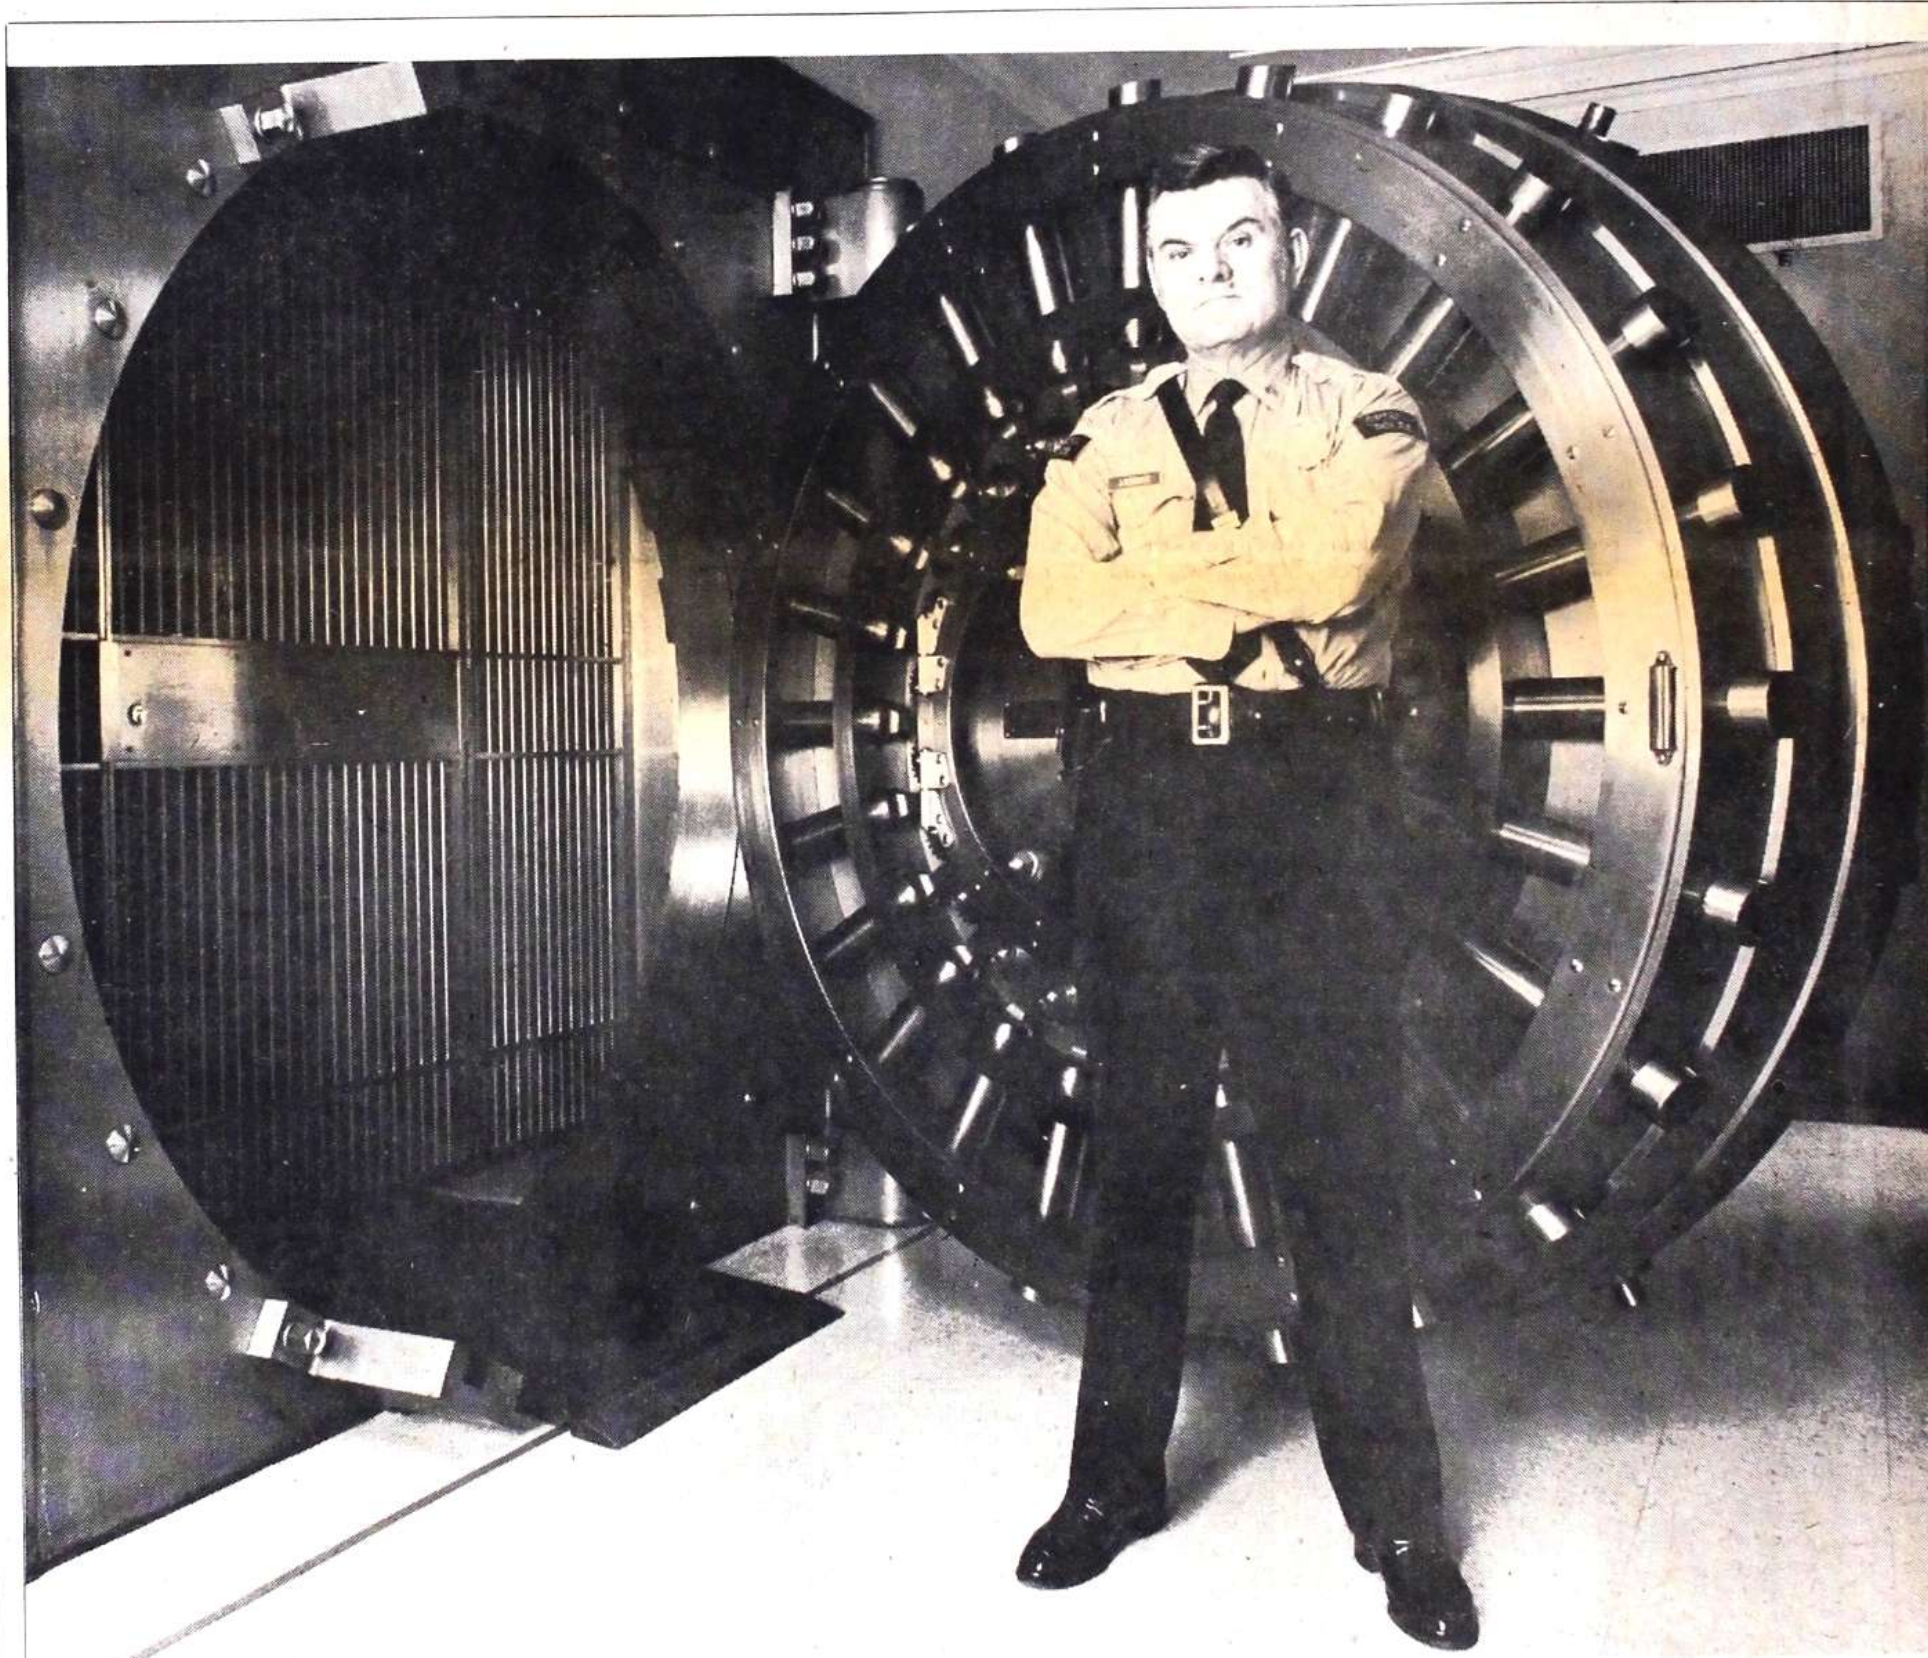

Jack Hosmer, 37, of 42259 Ludlow Court, Northville Township, succeeds Irvin A. VonDestinon, who resigned the post after four years of service.

VonDestinon spent his last day on the job last Friday. He and his family are returning to Arizona where they lived for more than three years prior to his acceptance of the Van Buren post.

Hosmer leaves the post of assistant superintendent of business and fiscal management at the Westwood Community School District.

The new business manager attended Central Michigan University.

At NBD, you get a lot more than 7 1/4% interest.

Let's be honest...just about every bank in Detroit will give you 7 1/4% interest on savings certificates of $1000 or more left on deposit for 4 years. And so will National Bank of Detroit.

But NBD can give you something extra no other bank in Michigan can give you — the security of dealing with Michigan's biggest bank, with assets of more than $8,000,000,000.

And you don't have to have a thousand dollars, or leave your money on deposit for 4 years, to have your savings protected by NBD. The same $8 billion in assets, and long-time reputation for financial soundness, stand behind every NBD savings plan...even if you open a regular EveryDay Interest account with only a few dollars.

Why not get the safety and security of Michigan's biggest bank, by starting a savings program at the NBD office near you?

We have what it takes to make banking a lot better for you.

Making banking better for you.

Federal law and regulation prohibit the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless three months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate.

TAKE NOTE!

Positions still are open for those residents interested in helping operate Santaland at the Garden City Municipal Park.

The Garden City Jaycees are looking for volunteers to fill the positions of Santas, cameraman, yard supervisor, animal caretaker, Christmas tree salesperson and manpower for decorating.

Those interested in volunteering their time to work at the exhibit are asked to contact George Pierson at 261-6680 or Fred Waters at 522-1163.

The display opens during Christmas to provide youngsters with a chance to visit with Santa Claus and see live animal displays and puppet shows.

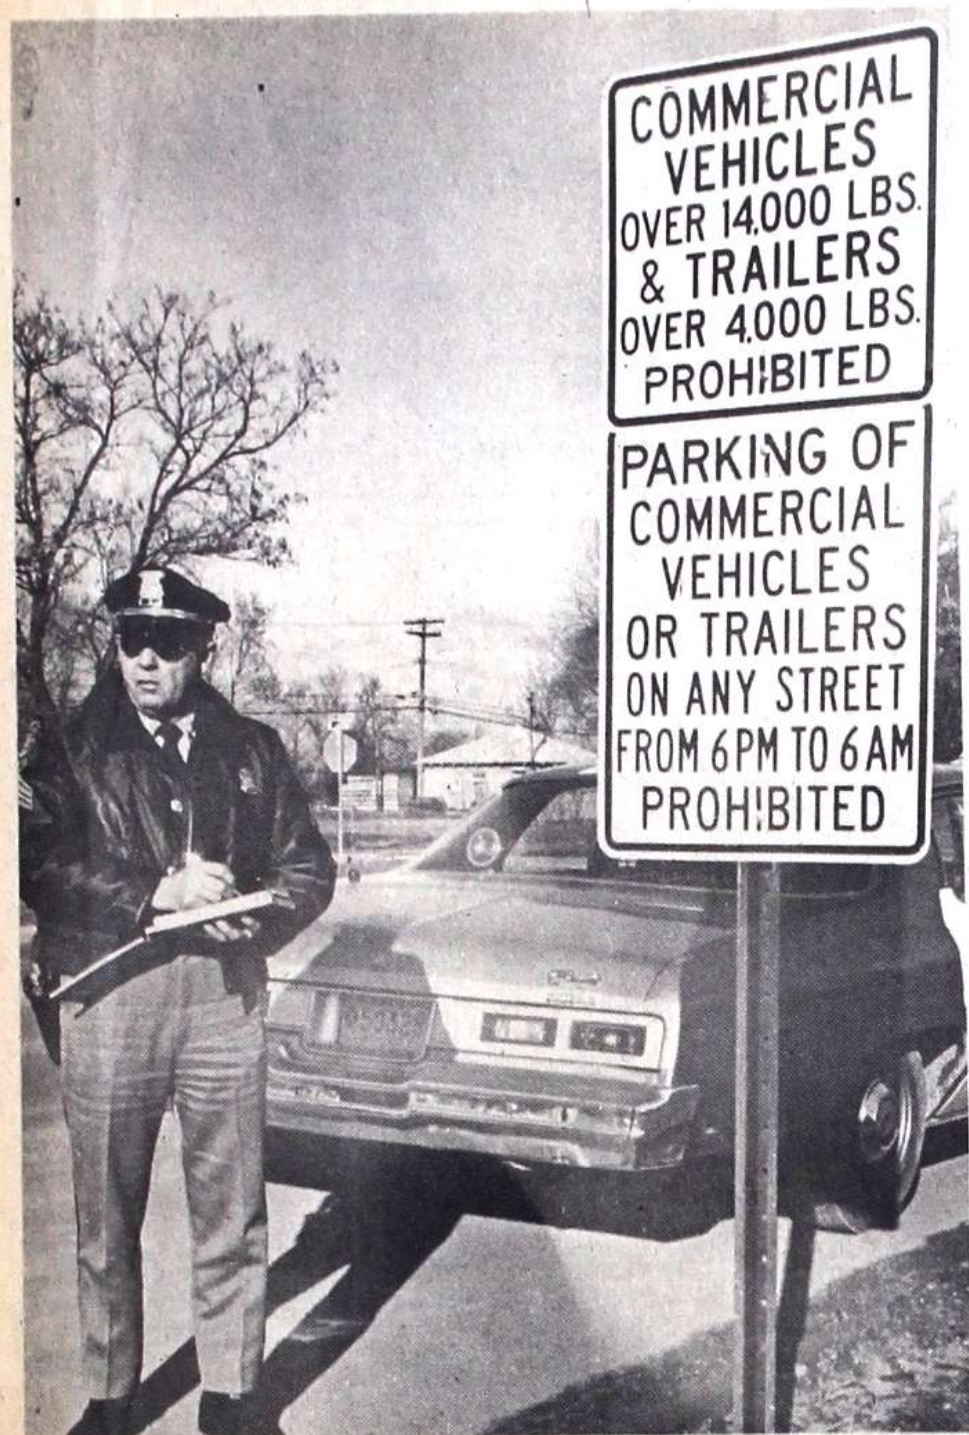

The park is located at the corner of Merriman and Cherry Hill roads.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARINGS

RE: RELATIVE TO ADOPTION OF A FACILITIES PLAN AND ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT OF PROPOSED ALTERNATIVES IN FACILITY PLANNING STUDY OF POLLUTION ABATEMENT OF ECORSE CREEK, NORTH BRANCH OF ECORSE CREEK DRAIN IMPROVEMENT AND SEXTON KILFOIL DRAIN, COMMONLY KNOWN AS THE SOUTH BRANCH OF ECORSE CREEK DRAIN

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Wayne County Drain Commissioner and the Drainage Boards for the above-named intra-county drains in Wayne County, Michigan, will hold Public Hearings on the proposed Facility Planning Study of Pollution Abatement of Ecorse Creek - North Branch of Ecorse Creek Drain Improvement and Sexton Kilfoil Drain, commonly known as the South Branch of Ecorse Creek Drain, for the purpose of receiving comments and views of interested persons. Detailed information is available for the review of any interested person or group and includes a copy of the project application and the draft of the Environmental Impact Statement. The hearings will be held as follows:

Date	Place	Time
December 9, 1974	Taylor City Hall 2355 Goddard Road Taylor, MI. 48180	6:30 p.m.
December 10, 1974	Lincoln Park City Hall 1355 Southfield Road Lincoln Park, MI. 48146	6:30 p.m.
December 11, 1974	Allen Park City Hall 16850 Southfield Rd. Allen Park, MI. 48101	6:30 p.m.

Three alternatives to abate pollution are outlined in the Facilities Planning Study. The three alternatives, denoted as A, B, and C, are:
A. Separation of Combined Sewers
B. Treatment of Combined Sewage Overflows
C. Treatment of Combined Sewage Overflows and Surface Runoff.

Alternative A proposes the separation of combined sewers (sewers which carry both sanitary sewage and storm drainage) which involves construction of new sanitary or storm sewers to provide a separate conduit for each. This removes the storm waters from the sanitary sewers which in turn relieves the treatment plant and eliminates the overflow of combined sewage from the system. The total project cost associated with this alternative is $179,306,000.

Alternative B, Treatment of Combined Sewage Overflows, differs from Alternative A in that it proposes to treat the overflow of combined sewage before it enters the stream rather than attempting to eliminate the overflow. The total project cost associated with this alternative is $176,927,000.

Alternative C, Treatment of Combined Sewage Overflows and Surface Runoff, is basically an expansion of Alternative B. Under Alternative C a portion of the most polluted portion of the basin's storm drainage ("First Flush") would be treated in addition to the combined sewage overflows proposed under Alternative B. The total project cost associated with this alternative is $182,047,000.

It is the purpose of these hearings to receive comments on the environmental impact of each of the proposed alternatives.

Copies of the proposed plan will be available for public inspection at public office as follows:

City Clerks for the cities of:
City of Allen Park 16850 Southfield Road Allen Park, Michigan 48101	City of Dearborn Heights 6045 Fenton Dearborn Heights, Michigan 48126

Mayor Smith submitted his letter of resignation and expressed his sincere best wishes to the City of Belleville.

Motion by Tontalo, seconded by Palmer, that Mayor Smith's resignation be accepted with regrets, and sincere appreciation for his many years of service to the City of Belleville, and wishing him well. Carried: Unanimously.

Motion by Stinehour, seconded by Tontalo, that the meeting be adjourned. Carried: Unanimously.

ANNUAL FEAST—By tomorrow evening most of your guests will have loudly proclaimed they ate too much. For the inexperienced cook readying the Thanksgiving dinner for the hungry family might seem like an impossible task, but careful preparation and a dash of loving care will make the meal a success.

Serve up homemade breads at dinnertime

No meal would be complete without the usual compliment of candied sweet potatoes, olives, pickles, cranberry sauce, a vegetables. But what about the bread.

Serving up fresh loaves of mushroom bread or treat your guests to slices of apricot nut bread. Both are sure to please even the fussiest of eaters.

And to add little pizzazz to the vegetable portion of the meal serve up Harvard beets and onions.

APRICOT-NUT BREAD

$\frac{3}{4}$ cup dried apricots
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup Swift's Shortening
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
2 cups sifted flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup milk
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped nuts
Wash apricots. Cover with hot water. Let stand $\frac{1}{2}$ hour. Drain. Cut into small pieces. Cream shortening sugar and salt together in large bowl. Add egg, beating well. Sift flour with baking powder. Add alternately with milk to shortening-sugar mixture. Stir only enough to blend ingredients well. Add apricots and nuts. Pour into a well greased 9-by 5-by 3-inch loaf pan. Bake in a 350 degree oven for about 1 hour.

MUSHROOM BREAD

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup ($\frac{1}{2}$ stick) margarine
 $\frac{1}{2}$ pound mushrooms, finely chopped
1 cup finely chopped onion
2 cups milk
3 tablespoons molasses
4 teaspoons salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon pepper
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup warm water (105 degrees-115 degrees)
2 packages Fleischmann's Dry Yeast
1 egg
1 cup wheat germ
8 to 9 cups unsifted flour
Melt 2 tablespoons margarine in large skillet over medium heat. Add mushrooms and onion and saute until onion is tender and liquid has evaporated. Cool.
Scald milk; stir in molasses, salt and pepper. Cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water in large warm bowl. Sprinkle in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk mixture, mushrooms mixture, egg, wheat germ and 2 cups flour, beat until smooth. Stir in enough additional flour to make a stiff dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about eighth to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about one hour.

Meanwhile, use four 30-ounce fruit or vegetable cans to prepare Mushroom pans (below). Punch dough down. Turn out onto lightly floured board.

Serve dessert; It's ice cream

The lights are dim, background music is playing, the smell of turkey, dressing and pumpkin pie is in the air. But mixing in with smells of almost everyone's favorite holiday dinner is a dessert that will grace any table this Thanksgiving Day.

Treat your family to pumpkin ice cream bombe, a delicious combination to top off the feast.
Using vanilla ice cream, pumpkin and a few other goodies, hostesses will find that dinner guests won't say no to this dessert.

PUMPKIN ICE CREAM BOMBE

$\frac{1}{2}$ gallon Swift's Vanilla Ice Cream
2 cups pumpkin
1 cup packed brown sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon ground nutmeg
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon ground cloves
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1 stick ($\frac{1}{2}$ cup) margarine, melted

Scoop ice cream into large mixing bowl to soften. In a small mixing bowl, blend pumpkin, sugar and seasonings. Fold seasoned pumpkin mixture into softened ice cream. Spoon into 3-quart mold. Place into freezer until ice cream sets or hardens. Meanwhile combine graham cracker crumbs and melted margarine. Remove mold from freezer. Gently pack down crumb mixture over ice cream in mold to form a crust. Place mold in freezer at least 24 hours. Unmold by setting into a pan of warm tap water. Invert onto chilled plate. Cover and return to freezer 2 or 3 hours. For easy slicing, place pumpkin bombe into refrigerator to temper about 15 minutes before serving. Garnish with whole pecans, if desired. Serve with Orange-Rum Sauce.

ORANGE-RUM SAUCE

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup granulated sugar
4 teaspoons cornstarch
 $\frac{3}{4}$ cup freshly squeezed orange juice (2 oranges)
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water
 $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ teaspoon rum extract
1 cup orange sections

In a saucepan, combine sugar and cornstarch. Slowly add orange juice and water, stirring constantly for a smooth blend. Cook over medium heat stirring constantly until sauce becomes clear and begins to thicken. Continue to cook gently approximately 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add rum extract and orange sections. Mix gently. Serve warm or cold over Pumpkin Ice Cream Bombe.

If rum is used instead of rum extract, substitute $\frac{1}{4}$ cup rum for $\frac{1}{4}$ water and eliminate the extract completely.

To make mushrooms divide dough into 4 equal pieces. Shape each piece into a smooth round ball. Place in prepared mushroom pans. Let rise, uncovered in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about one hour.

With finger tips gently press lower edge of mushroom cap down to meet foil-covered collar. Reshape cap if necessary. If desired brush mushrooms with a mixture of one egg beaten with one tablespoon water. Bake on lowest rack position at 400 degrees about 40 minutes, or until done. Carefully remove from pans and cool on wire racks.

To make loaves divide dough in half. Roll each half to a 14 - by 9-inch rectangle. Shape into loaves. Place in 2 greased 9 - by 5 - by 3-inch loaf pans. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about one hour.

Bake at 400 degree about 45 minutes, or until done. Remove from pans and cool on wire racks.

Mushroom pans: Cut 4 heavy cardboard squares 2 inches wider than can opening. Trace can opening in center of squares and cut out. Cover rings with foil. Place rings over cans so they fit tightly around opening. Grease cans and foil collars well.

HARVARD BEETS and ONIONS

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar
1- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoons cornstarch
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup vinegar
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water
3 tablespoons butter
1 medium onion, peeled, sliced into rings, $\frac{1}{4}$ inch thick
5 medium sized beets, cooked, peeled and sliced $\frac{1}{4}$ inch thick

In a saucepan, mix sugar and cornstarch. Add vinegar and water. Bring to a boil stirring constantly until sauce becomes clear and slightly thickened. Turn off heat. Then melt butter in a small skillet and saute onion rings. Add onion rings, butter and beets to vinegar-sugar mixture in saucepan. Let stand at least 30 minutes. Just before serving bring to boiling point and serve immediately.

It's time for turkey again!

Turkey time once again is here and new homemakers as well as old pros are tackling the chore of fixing the annual Thanksgiving dinner.

For the experienced cook, the preparations are a familiar routine, but for the inexperienced cook readying and cooking the bird may seem like the impossible.

In preparing the turkey for stuffing, the bird should be well thawed. The legs and tail should be freed from the tucked position, and the neck and giblets removed from the body cavity.

The turkey itself should be rinsed and drained before the stuffing process begins.

Allow for about three-quarters cup of dressing for each pound of the purchased weight of the turkey. Fill the body cavity lightly with the mixture.

Return the tail and legs to the tucked position, secure the neck skin to the back of the turkey with a skewer, closing up the cavity, and the turkey is ready for the oven.

For cooks unwilling to chance the bird to timing per pound while in the oven, a meat thermometer can be inserted into the center of the thigh next to the body, but not touching the bone.

Those using the timing method should allow $3\frac{1}{2}$ to four hours for turkeys weighing from eight to 12 pounds. Add a half hour to the time, four to $4\frac{1}{2}$ hours and $4\frac{1}{2}$ to five hours, for birds weighing 12 to 16 pounds and 16 to 20 pounds respectively.

However, turkeys topping the scales at 20 to 24 pounds should be left in the oven from five to six hours.

When the turkey becomes light brown in color, the breast should be covered with aluminum foil to prevent overbrowning.

To check if the turkey is done, be sure the meat thermometer is in its original position. The thigh temperature should be at 180 to 185 degrees. Press thigh and drumstick. The meat should be soft. Then prick the skin at the thigh. The meat juices should no longer be pink.

Try this stuffing mix to make your bird taste even better. Sure to please, it'll compliment the best of dinners.

TURKEY STUFFING

Cooked, chopped turkey giblets

8 cups bread cubes, toasted
3 squares butter or margarine
8 large onions, chopped
1 small bunch celery, stalks and leaves, chopped
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup parsley, leaves only, minced
2 to 3 cloves garlic, minced (optional)
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
 $2\frac{1}{2}$ tablespoons poultry seasoning
Reserved liquid from giblets

Melt butter or margarine in heavy skillet; cook vegetables until soft, but not wilted. Do not brown. Add seasonings, cooked giblets and toss with bread cubes. Stir in about 1 cup hot liquid from giblets. Cool.

Yield: Stuffing for 16-18 pound turkey.

To cook giblets: In small saucepan over high heat, heat to boiling giblets (heart, liver and gizzard), neck, 1 celery stalk, cut up, 1 medium onion, 1 teaspoon salt and enough water to cover. Reduce heat to low; cover and simmer 30 minutes for small giblets, 1 hour for large ones or until fork-tender. Drain, reserving liquid for making stuffing or gravy. Discard celery and onion. Coarsely chop giblets, remove meat from neck, discard bones. NOTE: Stuffing can be baked in a covered casserole in preheated 350 degrees oven about 30 minutes.

Kalamazoo chapel is setting for Cleary-Van Buhler vows

In a chapel ceremony Nov. 2 in Kalamazoo, Gwen Marie Van Buhler exchanged wedding vows with John A. Cleary. The Rev. Michael J. Evans presided at the 7 p.m. candlelight rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Van Buhler of 45201 Venetian, Belleville. Mr. and Mrs. E.H.

Cleary of Greenwich, Conn. are parents of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in a toe-touching creation of sata peau designed with a high-rise waistline with venise lace forming a dirndl effect on the bodice. Her full, long sleeves were cuffed in lace and her long skirt swirled into a chapel sweep as she walked. A crescent cap of lace held her illusion veil which was cut in mid-back length and a single long-stemmed coral rose and greenery completed her bridal finery.

JANET VAN BUHLER of Belleville was her sister's maid of honor and another sister, Joan, served as junior bridesmaid. Both girls were dressed in long frocks of beige imprinted with a rust and green floral motif. The gowns were fashioned with short puffed sleeves and dark green dirndls and accessorized with rust-colored soft-brimmed picture hats. The nosegays they held were fashioned of rust-colored mums.

The bride's brother, Gary Van Buhler, served as best man.

The Candlewyck Hall in Kalamazoo was reserved for the reception which followed.

The bride is a 1971 graduate of Belleville High School who graduated from Bronson Hospital School of Nursing through Western Michigan University. At the time of her marriage, she was a registered nurse working at Bronson Hospital in Kalamazoo.

HER HUSBAND graduated from Kent School and Harvard and Wesleyan Universities. He served as a sergeant with the U.S. Army Special Forces and is employed as a management consultant.

Beech-Smith wedding planned for February 15

MISS BEECH

The engagement of their daughter, Barbara Joy Beech, to Paul Kirk Smith is being announced by Mr. and Mrs. Ronald L. Beech of 8680 Rawsonville Rd. Belleville.

Miss Beech, currently in her sophomore year at Eastern Michigan University, is majoring in special education. She is a 1973 graduate of Belleville High School.

Her fiancé, the son of Belleville Mayor and Mrs. Royce E. Smith of 240 W. Columbia Ave, resides at 46040 Lake Villa Dr., Belleville. He graduated from Belleville High in 1968 and from Ferris State College where he received an associate of arts degree. In 1972 he earned his bachelor of arts degree in elementary education at Michigan State University. A member of Mu Gamma Chi at Ferris, he is now on the teaching staff of the Van Buren School System.

The couple plan to be married Feb. 15 at the First United Methodist Church of Belleville.

Study Clubs share annual guest night

For their annual "guest night", the Women's Study Club of Belleville joined forces with the Junior Study Club for their own dinner-theater.

Spring wedding planned

A spring wedding is being planned by Deborah Ann Rogers of Wayne and Michael David Zimmicki of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rogers Jr. of Gloria Street, Wayne, are announcing their daughter's engagement and April 5 nuptial date.

The bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. a Michael Zimmicki of Benson Street, Westland, resides on Mott Road, Belleville.

A 1973 graduate of Wayne Memorial High School, Miss Rogers and her fiancé are both employed at Westwood Millwork Products in Wayne. The prospective bridegroom attended Churchill High School.

The committee, Avis White, Marjorie Jahr, Mary Boyd, Katherine Krebs and Leota Schweigert of the former group and Barbara Boelter of the latter used candlelight, dried arrangements and fall colors to set the mood for the evening. Members of the two clubs and their guests, some 50 in all, gathered for a social time around the punch bowl prior to dinner.

Two members of the Belleville Community Players, Sharon Matthews and Ron Zielinski, with props from their "Suitcase Theater" starred in a skit from "Lovers and Other Strangers" which humorously followed the progress of a young fellow and the girl he has picked up for the evening.

Following their performance, they did a reading of a script and drafted Barbara Boelter, Darryl Raymond Jr., Arlene Smith and Bill Murphy to audition for parts, thus giving them a taste of acting.

ALL AN ACT — Two members of the Belleville Community Players, Ron Zielinski and Sharon Matthews, with their "Suitcase Theater" presented a skit from "Lovers and Other Strangers" when two area women's clubs invited them to perform at their joint meeting. The Women's Study Club of Belleville and the Junior Study Club shared a dinner-theater party Nov. 20 at North Junior High School which featured the actors.

Flu, cold have different cures

Do you know the difference between the common cold and "the flu" or influenza? Not knowing the difference could prove dangerous.

A common head cold may be caused by any one of dozens of viruses. Influenza, on the other hand, is caused by certain specific adenoviruses and parainfluenza viruses, most of which have been isolated and studied by medical researchers.

Although very much like a cold in milder forms, flu can become severe and reach epidemic proportions when a viral mutation, a strain slightly different from that which already has been identified, appears.

A COLD IS AN upper respiratory infection and generally can be treated with bed rest, liquids, aspirin, and a nourishing diet.

Influenza is described as a whole-body infection, which can begin abruptly with a temperature of 101 degrees. Symptoms usually include fatigue, loss of appetite, nausea, headache, weakness, and possibly an ache in the joints of the legs and lower back.

Comparison shopping to be in new form

Do you wish you could compare the nutritional content of food products?

You may be able to soon. By the end of 1974, certain food products will be wearing new labels complete with nutrition information. If a nutrient is added to any product or if a nutritional claim is made for the food, the product must have full nutritional labeling.

"Serving size, number of servings in the package, and the calories, protein, carbohydrate and fat in a serving will be on the label," says Portia Morris, Michigan State University nutrition specialist.

"Also required is the amount of protein, Vitamin A and C, thiamine, calcium, iron and vitamins B6 and B12 expressed as a percentage of the U.S. recommended daily allowances," she adds.

Until now, many product labels expressed the amount of vitamins as a percentage of the minimum daily requirements.

Although nutritional labeling isn't required for most foods, (those without added vitamins and nutritional claims), many companies are voluntarily putting the labels on their products to give the consumer additional sources for nutritional information. Since most people are unfamiliar with the nutritive value of food items, they may learn which products are good sources of Vitamin A, etc.

Norma Weems is fall bride of Mark Sorek

A week-long honeymoon at Niagara Falls and Toronto, Ont. followed the Nov. 2 wedding of Norma Jean Weems of Belleville and Mark Gerard Sorek of Dearborn Heights. The newlyweds are now making their home at 1743 Orchard Dr., Wayne.

The Rev. Raymond S. Skoney presided at the 5 p.m. ceremony before some 100 assembled relatives and friends. Michael Ives was organist for the double ring rite and Don Range of Livonia, the soloist, sang "The Wedding Song."

The afternoon nuptials united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Weems of 11606 Juniper Dr., Belleville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sorek of 8250 Nightingale, Dearborn Heights.

ESCORTED UP the aisle by her father, the bride appeared in an ivory satin gown designed with a high lace neckline, balloon sleeves cuffed in lace and a cathedral-length train.

Her elbow-length circular veil edged in lace was caught to a little Juliet headpiece and her bouquet was comprised of stephanotis, greens and baby's breath as well as cascading sweetheart roses and ivy.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Richard Jacob of St. Clair Shores (the former Joy Cummings of Belleville) who donned a sleeveless frock with a turquoise bodice and royal blue skirt. The high-collared dress, made by the bridegroom's sister Martina Sorek, was accented by a single yellow rose and ferns which Mrs. Jacob held. Bridesmaids in identical ensembles were Nancy Weems of Belleville and Martina Sorek of Dearborn Heights, sisters of the bridal couple.

BEST MAN was the bridegroom's brother, Christopher Sorek of Dearborn Heights. The corps of ushers included John Sorek of Dearborn Heights, another brother; Richard Jacob of St. Clair Shores, the bride's uncle; and James Weems of Belleville and Patrick Sorek of Dearborn Heights, brothers of the bride and bridegroom.

At the reception which followed at the Knights of Columbus Club in Westland, the bride's mother greeted the 300 guests in a salmon-colored sleeveless knit gown with a companion jacket.

Mrs. Sorek, the bridegroom's mother, chose to wear a long-sleeved blue gown with a lace overlay. Both women were honored with corsages of carnations and roses.

The new Mrs. Sorek graduated from Belleville High School and attended Michigan State University where she affiliated with Gamma Phi Beta sorority. She is now employed at Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, Inc. of Detroit.

Her husband is a graduate of University of Detroit High School and Michigan State University. He holds a degree in advertising and is associated with the Evans Scholars of Western Golf Assoc. He is an employee of Household Finance Co. of Detroit.

In Huron District

Charlene McNally is first woman to receive Silver Bear Award

Detroit Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, held its annual dinner meeting for leaders from Huron District at the First United Methodist Church of Belleville. The highlight of the evening was the presentation of the Silver Bear Award to two Belleville leaders. The award comes from the National Boy Scout Council for outstanding community, church and scout work with boys.

Mrs. Norman (Charlene) McNally of 42 S. Tigers are smallest league team

Belleville has a 'Goliath task'

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

If David (Belleville) is going to play Goliath (Suburban 8 Conference), then Coach Tom Niemi is going to need more than slingshots.

"We're the smallest team in the conference this season," said the Tiger sophomore coach whose shooters got the jump on most of the area teams. Belleville opened the cage campaign Tuesday night at home to Ypsilanti.

"Because we lack height, we're going to do a lot of things differently," continued Niemi. "We'll be full-court pressing more than we did in the past and we will be playing more man-to-man defense."

NIEMI has assembled a handful of sharpshooters who could cut down the taller teams in the tough Suburban 8 Conference. If the Tigers don't find the target and have problems on defense, they are in for a long season.

Niemi explained: "The league should be stronger this year than a year ago because most of the teams have a lot of experienced players with exceptional size."

"As I said, I know we're the smallest team in the league this year," reiterated the Belleville mentor.

Returning to the Tiger lineup are Mel Abraham, a 5-10 "deadeye" whose heroics earned him a berth on last year's All-Area team as well as all-league recognition.

ABRAHAM should be even tougher this year, his third season of varsity competition. The Tigers also have a reliable center in Ernie Thornsby, a 6-2 senior. Though his size isn't anything to compare with the 6-7 people around the pivot, Thornsby can sweep the boards with the best of them because of his excellent leap.

Tim Birk, a 6-foot-0-guard, better known for his antics on a golf course, Kaseem

Cohen, also a six-foot back-court whiz and Kevin Edwards, a 6-2 senior who didn't letter last year are among the leading candidates for the starting five.

Niemi will have the services of another sharpshooter, Walt Easley, a 5-11 senior guard who was elected as one of the co-captains. The other is Abraham.

OTHERS whom the Belleville coach will choose from for his starting team are Dennis Easley (6-0), Dan Scripser (6-2), Dan Theodore (6-1), James Thompson (6-1), Rodney Patterson (6-1), Jeff Hoeman (5-9) and Dave Abraham, Mel's younger brother.

Belleville will be shooting to better a 5-16 won-lost record posted last year.

"I feel we can do it," said Niemi, "we certainly have the potential to play excellent ball. One of our problems will be the boards and that's because of our size, however, we have players who can really get up there and they're going to have to do the job."

BELLEVILLE was the only team to beat Plymouth Salem, the defending conference champ, in the league last year and that was one of the highlights of Niemi's inaugural season as head coach.

The Tigers have Friday night off and will return to the court on Tues., Dec. 3 when they travel to Plymouth Canton. They all open up the conference campaign on the road Dec. 6 at Redford Union.

Jesse: 'We're more aggressive'

Romulus '5' to face state powerhouses

One thing for sure, Romulus cage coach Jesse Meriweather doesn't look for any pushovers when he sets about looking for basketball rivals.

The second year Eagle cage strategist picks on teams such as state powerhouses Detroit Southeastern, Northwestern, Ann Arbor Huron, Northern, Cass Tech and Southwestern.

All are members of the powerful Detroit Public League.

"You can't duck competition," said Meriweather, whose team hosted the second annual Thanksgiving Invitational on Monday. (Willow Run, Cass Tech and Detroit Southwestern rounded out the field.) "I believe that you got to play the best to know just how good you are."

MERIWEATHER is challenging the best with only one holdover from last year's team that posted a 16-5 over-all record last year.

Gone from that blue chip squad are prep All-American Johnny Long, presently at the University of Detroit, James Hall, an All-Area cager, Ricky Hubbert and Bryon Garner.

The returning starter is guard Michael Morrison, a 5-10 playmaker who is a deft ballhandler.

"We lost a lot of good people," sighed Meriweather, "but these boys can be tough, believe me."

ALONG with Morrison, Meriweather is grooming Darnell Hearst (5-10) center Billy Anderson (6-2), sophomore Allen Lewis (5-11) Roland Robinson (6-1) and Melvin Stewart (6-1) to make fans forget the former stars.

"We don't have any big people around," said Meriweather, "but we will be able to do things this year that we weren't able to a year ago."

"We're going to be able to trap more because we are much quicker and more aggressive and I feel the fans are going to enjoy watching us play."

Might be true, Jesse. But who's ever going to forget the way Long used to set himself up on the sidelines, then bend his head to the right just a few inches, and drill the ball through the net?

Those were the days, and let's hope that they won't go down as the Golden Days of Romulus basketball.

JESSE MERIWEATHER

With Michael Morrison drilling in 35 points, Romulus launched the 1974 basketball campaign Monday by crushing Willow Run 89-69 in the first round of the Thanksgiving Invitational hosted by Romulus High.

Morrison, a quick-moving guard, sank 12 points in the first quarter to lead the Eagles to a substantial 29-14 first period lead. Romulus, though outscored 23-19 in the second period and 14-12 in the third managed to hold the advantage the rest of the way.

"WE LOOKED good for a first night performance," said Jesse Meriweather who started his second season as head coach on the winning side of the ledger.

"We had the speed and the aggressiveness that we have been working on."

Romulus moved into the finals where it met Detroit Cass Tech Tuesday night. Cass annihilated Detroit Southwestern, 82-49 in their opener.

"Cass is one of the best teams I have seen," said Meriweather, "they have it all."

Three other Romulus cagers managed to hit in double figures in the opener. Along with Morrison's game-high 35 points, Allen Lewis, a 5-11 sophomore, and 6-2 center Billy Anderson each had 15 points.

Melvin Stewart chipped in with four field goals and five free throws for 13.

The end came swift to Belleville's bid for a district Class A girls' basketball title as Ypsilanti ousted the Tigers 62-7.

Belleville, without the services of two of their regulars, Kathy Berbee and Sharon Carane, fell behind 14-2 the first period and was out of it by the half, 37-4.

Ms. Lynn is looking forward to next season when all but two players will be returning to the lineup.

"We learned a lot this year," said the Belleville coach, "and I really am looking forward to next season because most of these kids will be back."

The end came swift to Belleville's bid for a district Class A girls' basketball title as Ypsilanti ousted the Tigers 62-7.

Belleville, without the services of two of their regulars, Kathy Berbee and Sharon Carane, fell behind 14-2 the first period and was out of it by the half, 37-4.

"We just couldn't stay with them," said first year coach Paddy Lynn who rounded out her initial campaign as the Tiger mentor with a 2-10 won-lost record. "And, with Kathy and Sharon, out of the lineup we obviously were no match for them."

MISS BERBEE was sidelined with an ankle injury, while Carane has injured her back.

Tiger tankers fare well in meet

A pair of AAU age group meets kept Coach John Stosick's Belleville Tiger Swim Club tankers busy this past weekend. The meets, held at Clarenceville and Stevenson in Livonia, provided some surprising and impressive times for the early phase of the AAU season.

Fifty-two teams, sporting some of the best competition seen this year, gathered at Clarenceville to participate in one of the most efficiently run affairs of this season.

The 13-14 years old boy's 200 freestyle relay team of Phil Berger, Joey Thomas, Howard Renton and Rusty Bearance proved it can swim with the best in the state by finishing fourth in the overall competition.

Bearance later came back to place fifth in the 50 freestyle with a time of 25.7, while Howard's brother, Chris, saw a drop in his individual medley and freestyle times.

About 3,700 entries by 60 teams from across the state made up the AAU "C" meet held by the Livonia Spartan swim club last weekend.

Many excellent showings by the Tiger's young swimmers marked this event.

The 11-12 age group boy's 200 freestyle relay of Jerry MacDermid, Devin Baisch, Norm MacDermid and John Kause placed second with a clocking of 2:16.8 with Kause coming back to place fourth in the 100 fly, touching in at 1:31.2.

Tim Frey swam his best times in the 100 back and 100 free, going 1:22.4 and 1:10.4 respectively.

Karen MacDermid and Linda McManus also turned in exceptional times for this early in the year. Karen placed sixth in the 100 yard backstroke with a time of 1:28.1 while Linda went her best times in the 100 back and 100 free.

In championship

North harriers win

Belleville North Junior High School captured its second consecutive cross country invitational championship as they brought the season to a successful conclusion.

MEMBERS of the North team include Paul Bassett, Richard Bassett, Michale Books, Frank Buhro, Jeffrey Bullock, Gregory Davis, Ronald Gott, Scott Harsch, Gary Herndon, Jeffrey Locke and Roger Marcun. Other members include Paul Myers, Edward Paris, Joseph Pool, Mark Priest, Darryl Thompson, David Vaughn, Abel Castro, Gary Barker and manager Carla Bullard.

Top gymnasts vie for international title

Competition for the team championship will begin at noon and the individual finals will start at 7 p.m. The meet has been sanctioned by the United States Gymnastics Federation.

Tickets will be on sale at the door at $1.25 for students and $2.25 for adults. Combination tickets for both sessions will be on sale prior to the team championships for $2 (students) and $4.50 (adults).

The second annual Michigan - Ohio - Ontario International Invitational will be held at Southfield Lathrup High School on Sat., Dec. 7.

Cougars to ballot

Belleville Cougars of the Western Suburban Junior Football League will hold elections for a new Board of Directors at 8 p.m., Thurs., Dec. 5 at the Lodge Lanes. All members are urged to attend the meeting.

BSC looks impressive in practice

Practice may not make perfect, but in the case of the Belleville Swim Club which participated in a practice session with the Ypsilanti and Milan Swim Clubs, 40 Tigers combined to set 89 personal best times.

At the meet, held at Ypsilanti High, the Belleville swimmers captured 30 top places in both individual and team events. A swim club record was set by Rusty Bearance, a member of the "power-group."

RUSTY was clocked in 2:04.8 in the 200-yard freestyle in the boys' 13-14 age group.

Most impressive were rookies competing in their initial meet. Performances by "greenhorns" Calvin Loshinske, Kim Beckly, Kelly Armstrong, Scott Girard, Jeff Stamper and Bob Oberdorf were very encouraging.

At State Fairgrounds

Christmas show spotlights world cultures

For the first time in Detroit, the Christmas celebrations and festivities of the world's greatest cultures will be exhibited in the Michigan State Fair Grounds newest Exhibit Building, Nov. 29, 30, and Dec. 1.

More than 60,000 people from Michigan, Ohio and Ontario are expected to attend the first annual "International Christmas Festival."

Christmases from 18 foreign countries will be depicted through exhibits created by congregants of Detroit's ethnic church groups and various ethnic organizations. A panel of distinguished civic leaders will award over $1,000 in prizes to the most outstanding exhibits.

The event is being sponsored by the Police Officers Association of Michigan with the cooperation of the Metropolitan Detroit Council of Churches.

"We want to generate new dimensions of interest in the spiritual aspects of Christmas," said Carl Parsell, coordinator of the Festival and executive director of the POAM. "Children, in particular, rarely, if ever, have the opportunity to observe how Christmas is celebrated in other countries. We're giving them that opportunity here."

Delicate pastries, tasty ethnic dishes, small handmade gifts and other native memorabilia will be available at all the booths.

A colorful stage presentation will provide continuous entertainment and will include folk dancers in native costume, local church groups singing ethnic Christmas carols, and numerous other family-oriented acts.

The Festival will feature the world's smallest Santa Claus — just 10" high — and a nativity scene complete with the Holy Family, three wise men, angels, shepherds and animals.

In addition, "Otto the Taking Car," a special 1934 Ford complete with blinking eyelashes and a trooper's hat, will be urging visitors to practice safety during the Christmas season and at all times. The talking car is being loaned to Parsell by the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

There will also be policemen equipped with electronic pens to etch identification numbers onto household equipment and other personal valuables. This service is free and is considered an effective theft-prevention measure.

Children will be especially intrigued by Santa's workshop which will be at their service to assemble toys. This service will be provided free by mechanically-inclined, off-duty police officers and will probably be much appreciated by parents lacking the time or ability to assemble newly purchased toys. Of course, Santa's little helpers will be making sure children all get their share of candy canes, too.

The grand opening festivities will take place Friday the 29th at noon. Hours of the Festival are Friday, noon to 8 p.m., Saturday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., and Sunday, noon to 8 p.m. General admission will be $2.50 with family and group rates available by calling 535-4606.

THAT'S ENTERTAINMENT — More stars than are usually seen in one place at one time turned out for the premiere showing of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer screen spectacular, "That's Entertainment!" when it opened earlier this year. Now on a return engagement to area theaters, the film is a collection of popular scenes from some of the film industry's best-known and most-loved musicals featuring such stars as Fred Astaire, Judy Garland, Liza Minnelli, Gene Kelly, Frank Sinatra, James Stewart, Debbie Reynolds and Jean Harlow.

Billy's trial: a sorry sequel

By RIC BOHY
The Enterprise-Roman
Movie Reviewer

Few things in this world are as disappointing as seeing a cherished and respected hero make a fool of himself. Unfortunately, Tom Laughlin does just that in his re-creation of the role that made him a folk idol in the 1971 sleeper, "Billy Jack."

"The Trial of Billy Jack," touted as the film that "takes up where 'Billy Jack' left off," picks up the basic premise of the earlier box office smash and carries it into the realm of the ridiculous.

When we last saw Billy—a half-breed Vietnam veteran who roams the area around a western freedom school, protecting its pacifist headmistress and students from the red-necked populace of a nearby town—he had just dispatched a crooked sheriff, the rapist son of the town's slimy boss, and several faceless bullies who delighted in torturing Indian children.

The film told us that injustice does exist in America, and carried the subtle message that violence, though sometimes gratifying, is certainly not a solution.

Now cut to the sequel, the anxiously-awaited "trial of Billy Jack." We learn within the first half-hour of the film that Billy was found guilty of involuntary manslaughter in the death of Bernard Posner, despite Posner's brutal rape of Billy's girlfriend.

While he serves his sentence, the students back at the freedom school are whipped into a frenzy of action. And there, as they say, is the rub.

Suddenly, government grants begin to pour into the school, allowing the students to establish their own television broadcast station.

As if by magic, the youngsters are transformed into some of the top investigative reporters and psychology experts in the nation.

The town's red-necks cringe as the students expose one massive injustice after another, as one or another of them constantly reminds us, "You could get killed doing things like this."

Suffice it to say that many of them do get killed in a climactic massacre ala Kent State and My Lai. Prior to this, the cast makes sure that we know who the bad guys are, presenting them as caricatures of ignorance, hate and ugliness.

The film obviously tries to tell us that violence is ugly, using gallons of cinematic blood and several obligatory karate sequences to underscore the point.

Billy Jack is still the staunch defender of his sheepish friends, but his inner-conflict is gone. In the first film, he seemed seriously to grapple with the problem of pacifism vs. violence as a solution to injustice.

In the sequel, despite a drawn-out hallucinogenic sequence detailing a search for his inner-self, Billy seems to have given up on pacifism entirely.

His real trial, it appears, is whether or not he can learn to be a forgiving, whole man, or remain at the animal level dependent upon meeting force with force.

Billy loses in both his courtroom trial and his inner trial, and filmmaker Laughlin leaves the entire question open. And the audience leaves the theater with a strange sense of foreboding that this can only mean another sequel is imminent.

'You could get killed doing things like this.'

'Mice and Men' opens Dec. 11

The Hilberry Repertory Company's production of John Steinbeck's prize-winning American drama, "Of Mice and Men," officially opens Dec. 11 following preview performances on Dec. 6 and 7.

year in New York by George S. Kaufman and won the New York Drama Critics' Circle Award.

The Hilberry cast is head by Al Hamacher as Lennie and Ralph Pochoda as George. The cast also includes Ellen Tobie, Colby Schneider, James Kisicki, Wayne S. Turney, Jeff Boudov, Michael Tylo, Mark Pint, Rex Ellis and Christopher Coucill.

Romulus puts in order for more maps of city

A second shipment of street maps has been ordered by Romulus city officials at a cost of $80 per thousand, since maps in an earlier shipment were determined to be too small.

City Clerk Leonard J. Folmar informed City Council members that the maps have been reordered because of poor readability in attempting to distinguish street names.

Folmar said the printer "attempted to pick up all property lines, subsequently causing certain street names to fill in."

He added that replacement maps were ordered at a cost of $80 per thousand, $10 less than the initial printing. The cost difference is due to the fact that a negative was made in the first printing and does not need to be remade in the second, Folmar said.

"The new maps will be 20 per cent larger than present city maps and should provide excellent readability," he added.

City maps are available to the public at the office of the city clerk in City Hall.

Investment firm offers new issue

The Investors Diversified Services (IDS) has initiated the sale of a new single payment face amount investment certificate, series SP-74, according to Peter Stilson of Belleville, local representative for IDS.

The certificate is issued by Investors Syndicate of America, (ISA), an IDS subsidiary. The SP-74 features increasing assured cash values over its 20-year term.

The new certificate also features additional credits predeclared by the ISA board of directors for each of the first five certificate years. Awarding of additional credits beyond the fifth year will be at the discretion of the ISA board.

Stilson said the purpose of the certificate is to provide an assured yield on a tax-deferred basis. The certificate also provides cash surrender and borrowing privileges as well as flexible settlement options.

Beginning at a minimum cash purchase of $1,000, certificates can be issued in increments of $100, ranging up to a maximum of $1 million.

As of June 30 Investors Syndicate of America had issued more than $6 billion of face amount certificates, Stilson added.

ANTIQUE?—That's the opinion of more than one Romulus official, who have criticized the 34th District Court building on Eureka between Merriman and Middle Belt in the city as being much too small and antiquated for current needs. To add to their concern, a newly-elected judge will join present Judge James B. Stone in the building, allegedly cramping the quarters even more.—The Enterprise-Roman Photo.

Veterans' assistance covers tutorial help

Few of the Western Wayne County veterans and servicemen enrolled in GI Bill college courses this fall will need tutorial help, but the Veterans Administration (VA) will pay for it if needed. Under a program not available under the World War II and Korean GI Bills, VA pays costs of tutoring, not to exceed $50 in any month, up to a maximum of $450. The benefit is not charged against the veteran's or serviceman's basic educational entitlement, VA officials added.

Any post-secondary trainee is eligible if he trains half-time or more and has a deficiency in a subject required in an approved program of education.

In order to receive payment for tutorial assistance, the agency advises eligible GI Bill trainees to complete a VA application and have it certified by the school. Applications should be sent within a year of the tutoring to the VA regional office which has the veteran's claim folder, said VA.

Total GI Bill enrollments, including other schools, flight, apprenticeship and on-job training, stood at 1.3 million in September.

Only the 727,000 college trainees in the country are eligible for tutorial assistance. Since it became available in March 1970, 48,000 trainees have received tutorial assistance at a cost of $4.7 million.

Belleville Masons earn high degree

The Scottish Rite of Freemasonry bestowed its 32nd Degree upon nearly 300 Master Masons from 11 southeastern Michigan cities at the conclusion of a recent 2-weekend reunion, and two Belleville residents were among them.

Earning the rank were Otto U. Wodtisch of 20 Church St. and George T. Brown of 10199 Sumpter Rd.

Deputy James O. Lunford, highest ranking Scottish Rite officer in Michigan, was the speaker at the traditional 32nd Degree Banquet which climaxed the reunion at Masonic Temple in Detroit.

Bad cord starts fire

A fire at Don and Carol's Party Store, 248 Main St., was caused by a short in an electric extension cord, according to Belleville Fire Chief Anthony Talaga.

The historized purpose of Thanksgiving Day seems to have changed for many people. You see this in the scene of hundreds of thousands of football enthusiasts flocking to stadiums while countless thousands of other people watch the games on T.V. with deep interest or nervous apprehension. Temporarily at least, minds are removed from the turbulence of personal problems of money worries, inflationary times, family turmoil, varied discontent and/or dissatisfaction, etc.

There is nothing basically wrong in this scene of changing times. If minds are ALSO mindful that Thanksgiving Day is a sacred occasion of religious culture. In fact, when you think of it, can not this evidence of changing times ALSO be a cause to express appreciation to a benevolent and gracious God on Thanksgiving Day?

New teachers greeted

This year's Meet the New Teachers night held under the sponsorship of the Belleville Kiwanis Club attracted approximately 100 teachers in the Van Buren Public School District.

The annual event with members of the Van Buren Board of Education, many Kiwanians and guests in attendance, was held at West Willow Elementary School. Van Buren School Supt. Dale E. Kaulitz introduced R. Lynne Hamilton, president of the Board of Education, Elwood J. Bos, Board secretary; and Robert E. Cook, Board trustee.

Following the introductions, Kaulitz called upon principals of the school district to introduce their new teachers.

The evening's guest speaker was Robert Crain, director of special services for the school district, who spoke on learning disabilities.

The meeting fit in "beautifully" with the Kiwanis theme, "Learning Disabilities for 1974-75," officials said.

Postal service quits postage-due delivery

Belleville and Romulus area postal customers are being reminded by local postmasters that the U.S. Postal Service is discontinuing the delivery of mail on which there is postage due.

Both postmaster Raymond J. O'Neil at Belleville and Wilfred Laginess at Romulus said the new policy, which became effective on Nov. 17, was instituted because of the high costs being incurred by the postal service in its attempt to deliver such mail.

Officials estimate that such costs total approximately $18 million annually.

In announcing the new policy last month, Postmaster E. T. Kalsen said: "It is unfair to burden the vast majority of mailers with costs created by the few who mail without prepayment of postage."

Letters mailed without postage or postage due will be returned to the sender if there is a return address, or to the dead letter office, instead of being delivered to the address as postage due mail as has been the custom, O'Neil added.

Postal officials will attempt to find the sender of unpaid mail and return it for a slight fee, if there is no return address.

Students plan winter concert

The annual winter concert presented by the Romulus Section High School bands will be held at 8 p.m. Dec. 12 at the high school auditorium.

The concert band will lead the program with four selections including "Tutti Fluti," which features the flute section.

Following the concert band performance will be the 60-piece symphony band opening with the exciting "World's Fair March."

Two Leroy Anderson favorites, "Christmas Festival," and "Sleigh Ride," also will be presented, along with a challenging new arrangement of "Fiddler on the Roof."

Both bands are directed by Ralph Miller. There is no admission charge.

For fund renewal

Commissioners issue plea

An urgent plea to Congress for renewal of federal revenue sharing has been issued by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

"Failure to continue the revenue sharing program could result in a virtual collapse of public services in urban areas throughout the nation," said Board Chairman Robert E. FitzPatrick, whose resolution urging renewal was adopted unanimously by the board on Nov. 21. He added:

"Adoption of the revenue sharing program in 1972 was one of the most important federal actions of the 1970s. It returned to those closest to the problems—local elected officials—some ability to deal with those problems. It is vital that the program be continued."

FitzPatrick added that Wayne County is receiving approximately $15 million in federal revenue sharing funds this year.

"Without these funds, we would be unable to maintain needed public services in fields such as health and medical care, law enforcement and child care," he said.

"That money represents at least 20 per cent of the county payroll of some $90 million."

Revenue sharing money goes into the county general fund and is allocated along with other revenues to support all county services. More than 56 per cent of the budget is devoted to health and related programs.

The 5-year revenue sharing program established under the State and Local Fiscal Assistance Act of 1972 expires in 1977. Some congressmen want to drop the program and return to the previous federal system of categorical grants which imposed rigid restrictions on how the money could be used.

The Wayne County resolution will be sent to all members of Congress from Michigan.

resuscitation in cases of an emergency:

Youth group to screen two inspirational movies

The Huron Valley Youth for Christ will present two films shown for the first time in the Ann Arbor area at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 14 in the Pioneer High School Auditorium in Ann Arbor.

The first film is entitled, "Satan on the Loose," and the second film is entitled, "The Girl Who Ran Out of Night."

"Satan on the Loose" is taken from the bestselling book by former New York City gang leader Nicky Cruz. The film includes interviews with Cruz's family, formerly involved in witchcraft and now is delivered from the power of Satan through faith in Christ.

The second feature comes from the producers of "The Cross and the Switchblade." Their newest release, "The Girl Who Ran Out of Night," is the story of a teen-age runaway from the midwest who seeks freedom in New York City.

Power company seeks rate hike

All governmental and quasi-governmental units in Western Wayne County that deal with Consumers Power Co. will have to pay more for municipal water and sewage pumping service if the state Public Service Commission (PSC) grants the utility's recent request for a $2.2 million annual rate hike.

Consumers Power had filed earlier this year with the PSC to increase these rates, based upon a 1972 cost of service study approved by the Commission staff. However the municipal pumping rate requests were contingent upon all municipal customers agreeing to the 1972 cost of service study.

If agreement could not be reached, the company indicated that it would be forced to withdraw the request, and perform a new cost of service study.

Intervening cities indicated that they could not accept the 1972 test year. After the intervening cities were made fully aware that a future rate increase based upon an updated test year would be greater, the company withdrew the rate request.
